AGENDA

THE SHAPE OF THE EVENING

One evening, end to end

18:00 — 30 MIN
Arrival, registration & welcome drinks
Arrive, catch up, meet the room.

18:30 — 5 MIN
Welcome & opening note
Lalit Das, Founder & CEO, Agentra
A welcome to the community, and where supply chain technology has come from.

18:35 — 25 MIN
Keynote: the decisions shaping supply chain leaders in 2026
Pratik Yadav, Managing Partner, BCG
The trends, and what they mean across operations, resilience and the people running it.

19:00 — 15 MIN
Technology and the supply chain
Prof. Ioannis Fragkos, Rotterdam School of Management, Erasmus University
How technology has reshaped supply chain operations, and what it has not solved.

19:15 — 15 MIN
Break
Coffee, drinks and conversation.

19:30 — 10 MIN
Quiz
A short one, on your phone. One lucky attendee walks away with a prize worth €1000+.

19:40 — 40 MIN
Panel discussion
Christophe Villain · Dr Sudip Lahiri, plus additional senior practitioners to be confirmed
Senior practitioners in candid conversation, with room to disagree and questions from the floor.

20:20 — 5 MIN
Vote of thanks
A few words to close the programme.

20:25 — TO 21:00
Drinks, small bites & continued conversations

AGENDA

THE THEMES OF THE EVENING

Three arguments worth the room

The theme of the evening, running through the keynote and into the panel.

01

Agentic AI in operations

From pilot to production without breaking the systems that already run the business. The honest conversation lives in what broke between the two.

02

Resilience by design

Supply chains that absorb shocks instead of reacting to them. Buffers, dual sourcing and scenario work all cost money in a calm quarter. Which survived the last budget round?

03

The human layer

Leading the people dimension of the shift. Planners are being asked to supervise systems that used to be their job, a change problem before it is a technology one.
